What's your book choosing style? Take our quiz to find out!

Q1 You've just finished a book. Do you know what you'll be reading next?

- A Yes. Sequel, prequel, spin-off – anything that lets me spend more time in that world.
- B I've got my eye on a book that everyone's talking about.
- C No, but I can't wait to find something unexpected in my local bookshop or library.
- D No – I like to ask the people closest to me for their recommendations.

Q2 How important are other people's opinions when you're deciding what to read?

- A I don't like listening to other people – I know exactly what I like.
- B I love to know what celebrities and influencers are reading so I can be one of the first to read it, too!
- C Not very – I let the books do the talking!
- D Very – other people know which books I'll enjoy, because they know me best!

Q3 What do you most look forward to in a new book?

- A The chance to see what my favourite characters do in new situations.
- B Talking about it with my friends.
- C Discovering new voices and stories.
- D Reading something as good as – or even better than – other books I've loved.

Q4 Do you like reading lots of books by the same author?

- A Yes, I'm very loyal – once I find an author I like, I'll read everything they do!
- B If they're a popular author, then yes!
- C No, I like to read books by lots of different authors.
- D I don't mind – I tend to read books by authors my friends or family suggest.

Q5 When you go to a bookshop, where do you head first?

- A To see if there's a new book in my favourite series.
- B To the new releases and bestsellers.
- C I like to walk around the whole shop to see what catches my eye.
- D To look at the booksellers' recommendations.

Mostly As Series-Hopper

There's seriously no better feeling than reading something you love... and then discovering it's part of a series or by an author who's written lots more. You're always guaranteed to have something new to look forward to, and a familiar world to revisit time and time again.

Mostly Bs Trend-Tracker

You like to read the books that everyone is talking about so you can be part of the conversation. Your local bookseller will know better than anyone else which books and authors are truly up-and-coming – why not ask them for their top tips?

Mostly Cs Risk-Taker

You're happy to take a chance on a book without knowing much about it, and there's nothing you find more exciting than picking up something you've never heard of from the shelves of your library or local bookshop.

Mostly Ds Advice-Seeker

You feel reassured when someone you trust recommends a book to you. If you want to expand your reading experiences, try getting those recommendations from lots of different places – librarians and booksellers can suggest books based on what you've enjoyed before.
